

A WORKING CONCEPT

heuristic: project as recipe

Ingredients in → instructions → something served

NAME YOUR RECIPE

INGREDIENTS — your inputs

INSTRUCTIONS — prompts, skills, scripts, tools

SERVING — your output

REUSE THE INGREDIENTS

Good inputs and steps get used again and again — write them down once, reach for them later. And a few go in almost every dish: context about you and your work is the salt — it might be in nearly every dish, so keep it within arm's reach.

A MEAL IS MANY RECIPES

Don't dump everything in one pot and keep cooking. A big project is several small, discrete recipes — each clean, each reusable — plated together. And often the output of one recipe becomes an input to the next.
